This book is dedicated to my wife, Elaine Lima; my daughter Sara and my son Lucas; my dear Mother Eve; my sisters, brothers-in-law and nephews, to all my family members, my dear Brotherhood and my friends who are many, not few.

Meire Mauro, Juliana Leonor, Antony, Claudio, Osvaldo, Sandro, Edivan, Rock, Willson, Mauritius, John, Edmilson, Tamara, Sueli, Silvio, Sidney, Bonfim, Claudio Fialho, Josias, Diniz, Leandro Donizete, Leandro Gama, Caio , Luzia, Rogério, and so many more that would have to make a Book just to put their names.

May God bless you all for motivating me to expose and put into practice my dreams. This book is intended to facilitate and support the Guidelines that may or may not be prepared on their respective Campuses. Because talking about SAFETY and how to develop it can be a little complex, because we soonb wonder how much this will cost the COMPANY, because it is who will sell, or for the CUSTOMER, the one who will buy. Here you will find several topics addressing this subject and its possible situations, as talking about SAFETY is talking about Everything, since you must earn your talents and fight for your goals. I thank God first for all that He has been doing and I am quite sure that He will do it in my life, and all who have encouraged me to write about this subject to which I am delighted to pursue it.

The author.

Since I was little dreamed so I believe like all children, to be a Teacher, Firefighter, Policeman, Doctor, Race Car Pilot, Aircraft Pilot, why not a Superhero, Etc. But as born in a simple Neighborhood so diagnosed As Favela at the time by the name of Jardim Moraes Prado located in the South Zone of Sao Paulo and today called a subtler name like the famous community (outskirts), it was difficult for any of those children born there could develop their skills, or rather, perform their respective dreams.

Playing with a wheelbarrow was pure adrenaline as we came down those alleys of our beloved favela, becoming at that moment a real race car driver, we were once real cops and thieves when we played the famous cop and thief. And in this way we would develop and put into practice what we would become later.

With this many of us were summoned by those in charge of drug trafficking and others required for theft. And I ended up standing out for having skill with weaponry, but when I played Police and Thief I always be the cop, because I could always arrest the thief. I was trained by both a traffic chief and a gang chief Bank robbery. But when at the age of eight my dear Father died in a car accident and with this my Mother sold our house and we moved to another place. I continued with one of my dreams of being a police officer, but I developed other skills such as leadership. But at my first registered job I went to work as a general service assistant, and at this location, watching some employees, I realized that they had lunch in about fifteen minutes and then used their remaining forty-five minutes to learn computer science in a room that had that company for their studies. With this I started to do the same as them, but I started to set deadlines in my learning.

But I realized that I was no longer just learning how to make spreadsheets, writing texts, but ranking passwords. And I was scared at first resort when I realized I had discovered such, but the dream of being a cop was bigger. And a female vigilante crowded that company one day watching me told me look I see in you posture and suggested as follows, when you turn twenty one take the course for vigilante and I'm sure you will do well in this area. After a while I left that company and went to work as a helper in an auto company and for some moment realized one of my dreams that I was to be a driver not of the famous F1 racing cars but of some vehicles also packed in famous racing as the car. Dakar Rally, because besides the alignment and balancing, sometimes I had the delicious pleasure of taking the test drive and feeling like a real driver.

Finally, I left and decided to do what that female vigilante had told me. I found a vigilante training academy by the name of Blue Star which I took the course. But I ended up excelling mainly in handling and shooting, and one of the instructors said to me privately, look at you, it's good because you don't take some courses in this area anymore, like for example, transportation of values, training and fire fighting, leadership and leadership, among others, but I don't know if at all the gyms for vigilantes are like that, but I did them

If you want something,
run after it and dot it

To my surprise they were given at the 4th Light Infantry Battalion (4th BIL), also known as Raposo Tavares Regiment, is a unit of the Brazilian Army, located in Osasco, São Paulo state and linked to the 12th Light Infantry Brigade (Aeromóvel), headquartered in Caçapava.

But my conditions at that time were not very satisfactory to afford such courses, and I remembered that I had a computer which at the moment was not being very useful for me, so I decided to sell it to a colleague, and so I got the value. to continue my courses, and also to join the Army, but never to be in it, that is, I would be a real enigma for many who were there. Confused no? At the end of my courses I was released and my first job in the area was in a Mall de Planados where I was the only one with such courses and specialized training in the area of safety.

But I wouldn't let this go to my mind, and I was more focused on learning than teaching. But my time there ended and in a special way I was selected from one thousand and five hundred candidates, to six vacancies in a multinational company by the name of Prosegur in 2006, where I joined as a base guard, and in 2007, I was promoted to Strong car watchman.

That same year I was promoted to chief of strong car team and it was no different to stand out in this role, but when going through a difficult process along with my wife Elaine in the loss of our first child, I came out of control leaving no alternative in resign from that company in 2009. It was difficult to get another job due to the fact that I resigned my position even more in a company of such size and recognized worldwide following the SAFETY, with this occurred I had to accept the famous nozzles, not to be in need , but from this I learned to work with constructions in buildings, houses, companies, and to make my own house, etc. But I realized that this will facilitate not only the theoretical part, but also the practice regarding the electronic security installation, because I could generate a plant at the beginning and see it already ready for operation.

This made it easy to do a risk analysis because you knew exactly where to deploy site security without leaving it vulnerable. But as I said I worked for a year on these nozzles, and I returned to work in the security area in 2010 rendering services as a shopping center guard by Verzani & Sandrini and that same year I received an invitation from the company Protege also following security, as a bank guard and armed escort until 2013 leaving the company to join Graber Security as a Leading Personal Security Vigilant, providing services to the famous TAM Linhas Aéreas in the Congonhas Airport Region located in the south of São Paulo.

And by standing out thanks to the good God, I was promoted to Security Inspector in this same company, but already providing service for a Transatlantic Business Center Condominium. I graduated as Business Security Manager, and have gone through other service stations like OI Phone Systems, Planned Stores, Labs, Industries, Etc.

And since I already had the desire to share my career and my knowledge with all of you, I decided to create a YouTube channel, and a Facebook page with the name of Plan is Believe, which has the function of explaining, reporting, teaching, expose, develop, strategize across campus both personally and professionally. And now I am publishing in Book a summary of how I started and where we should go. What do you mean you wonder now. That's right I started alone and now after this reading I invite you to win along with me. This is my advice to you, just tell me where I want to go or what dream I want to fulfill, as I'm sure something new will happen to you.

INTRODUCTION

This book is intended not only for colleagues who work in the area of security and those who still want to know about it, but also for other areas, as everyone needs to be SAFETY and confident that they are doing their job with complete dedication and PRECISION.

For in the age we are living in, the lack of sensitivity or perception of security has been aggravating disastrously, for with the uncontrollable rise of TECHNOLOGY, many are forgetting about the main, YOUR LIFE.

Some clear examples of this are walking the streets with their respective CELLURARS in hand, without worrying about possible accidents, or the most frequent theft.

Another totally inappropriate situation is the improper use of this device, that is, when driving a vehicle, facilitating or even causing possible accidents. Overuse can not only expose but take away your most precious GOOD. LIVE LIFE with WISDOM and enjoy with UNDERSTANDING. If we start policing ourselves right, we will practically avoid about ONE PERCENT of these absurd customs or why not say irresponsibility committed for lack of sensitivity and perception.
